Supported by National Environment Agency (NEA) and sponsored by e2i, SPMA has taken the initiative to organize this event with the objectives of encouraging our industry to adopt new technology; upskill the workforce for better productivity, and add value to our services. This is essential to meet increasing demands for better services in the light of Singapore’s our current manpower constraints and sensitivity in environmental protection.

We have invited 13 speakers mainly from the Southeast Asian region, USA and Australia who will be sharing their latest innovations, research, knowledge, and experience in addressing the challenging issues faced by the industry. We are targeting at least 250 to 300 delegates in this Convention, mainly from Singapore and also smaller numbers from other Southeast Asian countries.

We would like to invite all members to actively participate in this event to seize this great opportunity to keep abreast of the new developments in pest management technologies, learn new and upgrade our skill to innovate and transform the industry.

We look forward to your active support of the event and would appreciate it if you can submit your Registration Form by 28 February 2019 (see Attached).

Thank you
